

Delivering Professionalism and Excellence in General Practice Nursing

Tuesday 28 April 2015
Edinburgh International Conference Centre

Aim:

To consider how delivering professionalism in general practice nursing can be supported by quality education.

Objectives:

To review current access and availability to learning
To discuss how best to meet the current primary care workforce needs
To discuss the direction of advanced practice in primary care

Session 1: Excellence in the General Practice Nursing Workforce

Speakers include David Cunningham, Associate Advisor General Practice, NHS Education for Scotland, Monica Fletcher, Education for Health and Kathy Kenmuir, NHS Greater Glasgow & Clyde. Sessions will address the research and reality of learning in primary care, professional regulation, and examples of supported education to promote professionalism.

Session 2: Advanced Practice in General Practice Nursing: Developing Safe and Reflective Professionals.

Short presentations given by a variety of experienced advanced practitioners or educators. This will be followed by a chaired session of discussion on the way ahead to promote and support advanced practice in primary care.

For further details on this event and to register click on the following link:

<http://events.nes.scot.nhs.uk/delivering-professionalism-and-excellence-in-general-practice-nursing/?alttemplate=Overview>

Closing Date: 13 April 2015

Should you have any queries please contact Sandra Kerr: 0131 656 4378 or events@nes.scot.nhs.uk